

“I used to think that a call from the school could only mean something bad. My children have received calls from their teachers reporting positive things that happened at school. It was wonderful to hear something positive that I could then congratulate my children on. Thank you!”

“As for the high school level, we see a fostering of respect and self-responsibility. Students are given the tools to make good decisions for themselves and are valued for those decisions. It is warm and engaging. As for the middle school, there is a positive and energetic climate. The primary levels are setting a good groundwork in preparing students for success. They are teaching respectful behaviors and tolerance of others.”
